All investigations have their limitations which are imposed by the limits or sensitivity and specificity of individual assay procedures as well as quality or the specimen received by the laboratory. Isolated laboratory investigations never confirm the final diagnosis of the disease. They only help in arriving at a diagnosis in conjunction with clinical presentation and other isolated investigations.

Condition of Reporting • The reported results are for information & for interpretation of the referring doctor only. • It's presumed that the tests performed on the specimen belong to the patient named or identified. • Results of tests may vary from laboratory to laboratory and also in some parameters from time to time for same patient. • Should the result indicate an unexpected abnormality, the same should be reconfirmed. • Neither lab, nor its employees assume any liability, responsibility or any loss damage that may be incurred by any person as a result of misinterpretation.
